For keen ornithologists, the area is home to over 350 species of birds. The Maasai Mara is one of the most important areas for biodiversity in the world, where the diversity of wildlife is higher than in any other part in Africa. We follow a strict Code of Conduct in the Northern Mara Conservancies, where wildlife takes priority and sightings never have more than 5 cars.

Futures in the Wild is our guiding compass, dedicated to transforming the Northern Mara Conservancies through sustainable tourism, conservation, and community empowerment. We focus on creating a thriving ecosystem by addressing healthcare, education, environmental stewardship, and economic empowerment. By fostering community partnerships and engaging our guests in meaningful ways, we aim to inspire global awareness about the importance of conservation.
